

April, 2022, Order Of Enoch Newsletter

The office of the Bishop is pleased to present The Order of Enoch newsletter for the Spring of 2022. This newsletter will contain your fellow saints “stewardships” as designated by the Bishopric for the good of the saints. We will also cover news concerning consecrations, tithing, and offerings of the Remnant Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Days Saints. This issue will highlight Erica Jobe, and her business, Multiply Coaching, as a certified financial coach.

Erica Jobe, Certified Financial Coach with Multiply Coaching

What do you do?

I teach money classes and seminars. I also offer group and one-on-one coaching where I help my clients identify their money goals, make a plan to get there, and then provide the accountability they need to stay on track until they reach those goals. Specifically, I work with my clients on:

- the role of money in a Christ-centered life
- financial goal-setting
- creating an effective monthly budget
- building an emergency fund
- paying off debt
- getting started with investing for retirement
- honoring your stewardship
- managing crisis situations - foreclosure/bankruptcy injury/disability, or loss
- saving for major expenses - house/college/vacation

I also provide purpose counseling where I help clients (junior high and up) discover the work God created them to do. We go through a process of identifying their talents, skills, passions, and the impact they want to have on the world. Then we explore careers that match up with those attributes, exploring what education is necessary, how much it will cost, and how long it will take to get there.

Why do you do it?

I believe that God has a specific calling on each of our lives. He created us with unique gifts and talents and entrusted us with [his] money for a reason—to build the Kingdom. But as long as those resources are tied up, his ability to work through us is limited.

If you’re living paycheck to paycheck, you can’t help the young family whose house just burned down. If you’re stressed about money (as nearly 80 percent of Americans are according to a recent study), it is much more difficult, maybe even impossible, to focus on the Spirit’s leading. If you are in debt or don’t have savings, it’s much harder to take that lesser-paying job or start that business God’s been calling you to.

I started Multiply Coaching because no one should have to experience the stress of living paycheck-to-pay-check, no one should have to skip their God-given calling because they “just don’t have the money,” and no one should have to miss the amazing opportunities for service that come with financial freedom.
